Snap On!

With the aim of 'de-institutionalising' treatment areas, hospitals are now choosing to attach cubicle screens directly to the ceiling, creating a far less intimidating atmosphere for patients.

The challenge with this approach is that the complex process of removing and replacing the screens from ceiling height is such a major undertaking it hinders adequate, regular laundering.

In a hospital environment, this leads to an increased risk of cross infection and issues with OH&S, not to mention a very limited offering of cubicle designs.

Snap On is a studded tape which can be attached (sewn on) to any cubicle fabric and separate knitted mesh (Jordan Mesh), creating an all-in-one cubicle solution.

This improved cubicle design offers:

- Decreased risk of cross infection
- Improved usability
- Increased air flow
- Reduced laundering
- Long-lasting, rust proof finish
- Economic and attractive package

Available with any of our extensive range of cubicle screens, to view visit www.materialised.com
